The largest scientific expedition ever launched to study a single artifact began in New Mexico in 1977 following a major discovery at Sandia Laboratories in 1976. With 6000 pounds of scientific equipment and 40 researchers - - - most of them from New Mexico - - - studied the possible burial cloth of Jesus, the world famous, mysterious Shroud of Turin. After nearly four years of operation here, the Alamogordo museum is now world famous, attracting many visitors to our community.

Please join us, December 8 at 2 pm, for this festive celebration and show your support for this unique, fascinating treasure in Alamogordo.
