

History Channel “The Real Face of Jesus?” Reviews

SEAM Reviews of The Real Face of Jesus aired March 30, 2010 and re-aired April 3, 2010

April 1, 2010

History Channel has, without a doubt, made history with the work of Ray Downing and his team, and with several experienced, credible scientists, well known in Shroud research history. The show is the best collection of honest, peer-reviewed research on the Shroud ever presented about the Shroud of Turin.

I highly recommend this show for everyone interested in the truth about the Shroud. You will be in awe of the wonderful works and discoveries by these experts. Watch it on the History Channel, and buy it from their store! It is credible science and credible religious discussion. What a great combination! We need more shows like this. Please support their efforts by telling others to WATCH IT ON THE HISTORY CHANNEL!

I saw the show on the History Channel March 30th at Pete's house and was blown away by how good it was. I found a real scientific search for the truth of the shroud in the never-before attempted digital reconstruction to get a better idea of what the face of Jesus might have looked like, examining all the evidence, interviewing and working with the scientific experts who have studied this incredible relic for several decades in their respective fields.

I would like to personally thank History Channel, Ray Downing and Macbeth Studios for a job well done! I was deeply touched, personally, by all your work and the work of Ray's team. This is one I think I will have to purchase.

Warmest Regards,
