About the speaker: The speaker was asked by his good friend, Pete Schumacher, who founded the museum with his wife, to create a webpage as an online compliment to this no charge museum which features a full sized picture of the Shroud of Turin, the only VP8 Image Analyzer on open, interactive display, a tactile model for the sight impaired, among many other features. In August 2009 and the ensuing years, the speaker was faced with information he has studied in light of his own life and faith and this has had a profound impact on him and the direction of his life.

About the talk: The talk will focus on the Shroud, its relation to the passion of Jesus Christ, Scripture and the writer's own journey in life including the author's presentation of his own poem on the passion event from 1985, long before he was aware there was such a relic and its implications for his own faith.

You are invited to join us for this Holy Week reflection as we prepare ourselves for the Triduum leading up to Easter.
